FOR FOUR ONE-SIDED ROUNDS

as Me Loss It at Phil-

tour champion lightweight of America, received a set back tonight at the hands of Jack McAuliffs, the champion professional lightweight, in a four round bout at the Academy of Music. The usual preliminary "ecraps" preceded the main event, and when McAuliffe and Leech had entered the ring the latter was presented with a gold watch by his seasons friends.

eachers friends.
At the call of time McAuliffe went for is opponent, but Leeds escaped. Mcuiffe then caught Leeds with his left not right, the latter a stiff blow under the heart. Leeds ran in to clincify and, utting his head down to avoid punishment, butted Jack severely in the left respectively.

In the second round Leeds was cautious and scarcely struck a blow. Mo-Auliffe rushed him all over the ring, jabling him with his left on the eye, uppercutting him and putting that punishing right in on Leeds heart. Just before the rail of time McAuliffe drove Leeds to the ropes, and with a hard left swing, which landed on the jaw had him all but out.

In the third McAuliffe rushed and Leeds fell almost through the ropes. Leeds could not strike a blow until McAuliffe slipped, and then he landed his right on McAuliffe's head, his only blow during the round, which was entirely McAuliffe's.

In the fourth and final round Mc-Auliffe won easily, although the law precluded a decision by the referee. At the end McAuliffe was as fresh as when he started, and the cut was the only thing to show that he had been in a fight. Leeds was badly used up.

Briggs, the prohibition candidate for mayor, was advertised to read a paper mayor, was advertised to read a paper on "The Evils of the Liquor Traffic at Home and Abroad." Mr. Briggs contributed his paper, but could not remain at the meeting to read it. There was a small number present and the meeting was not marked by any enlivening campaign features. Mr. Briggs' paper was read by the secretary of the club, it being the same paper read before the prohibition conference last week in Hartman's hall. In the absence of President Walker, B. J. Colvin presided Miss Gene Reynders played a piano solo. Gene Reynders played a piano solo.

MUSIC TO BANISH INSOMNIA.

years ago. The Athenian doctors "banished fever by a song." Thales found music most efficacious in the piague, and Aulus Gellius even went so far as to maintain that it produced a beneficial effect in cases of bites and stings. In their work on "Psychological Medicine" Drs. Bucknill and Tuke remark that music is the first recorded remedy employed for the relief of madness. A novel, and possibly a useful, suggestion in the same direction is mentioned by Dr. J. G. Blackman in the Medical Magazine.

It is that a musical box worked by an electric motor might be advan-tageously employed in cases of insomnia. Some care, no doubt, would have to be exercised to see that the mechanism worked properly before it was started, as nothing would be more likely to drive sleep permanently away than a musical box out of tune or liable to unmusical box out of tune or liable to unaccountable and abnormal spurts of energy. It would also be trying to a nervous patient if in the stilly night the electric current were turned off altogether and the box became suddenly silent. It is possible that a burglar in one's bedroom might be accorded and silent. It is possible that a burglar in one's bedroom might be soothed and induced to surreader his booty by the unexpected strains of "Home, Sweet Home," but it is also possible that he might not. One or two interesting instances are recorded in the article of the benefit which has resulted in hospitals from the musical treatment, and the sleepless soul might do worse than try the prescription contained in it.

TOO POSITIVE.

As Illustration of the Dangers of Over-confidence to Self. It is sometimes a fault of young people to rely too fully upon their own opinions or impressions, and there are grown people who are quite too sure regarding matters to which they have given little attention. A passenger on a French steamer tells this story:

"The wind was fresh and we were running at the rate of twelve knots an hour. Our mariners were deceived in their calculations, and as the lead did not indicate the proximity of the coast they were expected to approach they concluded that the currents had carried us into the channel. One morning at brenk of day I heard the captain ex-

"'I see breakers through the mist!" "M. de l'Aignille, an officer of su-perior merit, who nevertheless displayed sometimes too much of the conidence of youth, replied, with a smile: Those breakers, captain, are nowhere but in your glass.'

"'Young man,' said our old captain, with a tone of anger, 'you are major general to the squadron and may give it the orders you think proper, but I know what I have to do. It is I who answer for the safety of my ship. I shall, therefore, give orders to tack, for there is not a moment to be lost."

"He accordingly gave that order, and during its execution, the fog having suddenly cleared away, we perceived, at about two hundred yards from us, the rocks against which our fleet would inevitably have perished. Fortunately the whole squadron imitated the movement of our vessel, and all danger was

"The young officer lost no time in thanking the captain for his wise re-proof and for his adherence to the duties of his position."

IS THERE A MAELSTROM? A Pet Bugbear of Geographers New Said Never to Have Existed.

Every school child in the early part of the present century was taught to believe that there was a terrible and wonderful eddy or vortex several miles in diameter on the coast of Norway into which ships, loebergs, whales and all the monsters of the deep were indiscrimi-nately dragged and buried forever in the ocean's awful depths.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Republic says: "I have been informed by a European correspondent that the macistrom has no existence outside the imagination of sensational writes.

"A joint commission of Swedish and German nautical and scientific men went in search of this, the greatest bugbear of antiquity, and report themseives unable to locate it, and that the sen was perfectly smooth where the whirlpool should have been."

The intest geographers tearely allude to it. One marks its site on the map, but does not mention it in his article on Norway. Assorting to our way of viewing the subject the manietrum remance has been pretty effectually de-

POPULAR IN CONCERT.

Representatives of a Brilliant Profession.

The Concert Stage Made Popular by Patti and Nilsson.

Two Well-Known Musicians Have the Same Experience.

The concert stage, rendezed so popular by Patti and Nilsson, has several eminent representatives in our own country. Among them few stand more prominent than Mr. and Mrs. Ryno of Porth Amboy, New Jersey. Mr. Ryno is a violin virtuoso and his wife is a singer of high merit.

These two musicians have recently passed through experiences so singular, with results so identical, that they desire to give the facts publicity.

"I am a violinist," said Mr. Ryno, "and for some time I was troubled with a nervousness and a numbness in my right arm, caused, I suppose, by too close application to my studies, both of mind and body. I am pleased to state that two bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cured me of an attack that I was afraid would end in paralysis, and so incapacitate me from my calling. The curative powers of this remedy are wonderful."

Mrs. Ryno said:

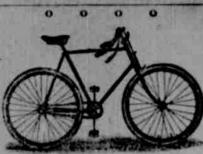

"For everal years I suffered with a form of indigestion that baffled the skill of three eminent physicians. At times I despaired of my life. I then began taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and I cannot say too much in its praise. arm, caused, I suppose, by too close ap-

All my troubles have given place to a healthy tone of both mind and body, and I feel like a new being." Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is exactly what you need if you are sick or ailing. It is exactly what is needed at this season of the year to invigorate your blood, strengthen your nerves and regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels. It is in fact the best and most perfect spring medicine. Drug-gists sell it for $1, and it is the pre-scription and discovery of Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th street, New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.
